

The Association of University Interior Designers (AUID) is a non-profit organization established in 1979 by several Interior Designers from Midwestern universities to provide a means of networking and interaction for “in-house” designers and directors of campus facilities who work in institutions of higher education. Since 1979, membership has grown significantly and AUID has representatives from across the nation. Our organization strives to support upcoming interior designers and has created a scholarship to help students with their professional development costs.

Eligibility to Apply for This Scholarship:

An applicant must currently be a graduate interior design or interior architecture student enrolled at the time of application or a 2023 graduate. Previous winners of the AUID scholarship cannot re-apply for two years after award.

Procedures:

To apply, fill out the form on the AUID website and email deliverables listed below to Whitney Brock.

Applicants will not be considered should any deliverables be missing or incomplete.

1. Cover Letter: Cover letter should provide a personal statement detailing your aspirations and goals for the design degree as well as how you intend on using the scholarship.
2. Resume: Resume to include work experience, honors/awards, extracurricular activities, organization memberships and positions held, degrees earned and pursuing, and any other pertinent information.
3. Portfolio: Portfolio should display interior design projects only; architectural projects will not be accepted. Students should use the provided template found here to create their portfolio submission. Page 1 will provide a student’s research abstract pursued during graduate studies, Page 2 showcase the best interior design work with details of project scope.
